Typhoid Epidemic is Unabated

NEW CENSUS WILL BRING INCREASE IN NUMBER OF CONGRESSMEN

32 Cases of Typhoid Fever at Bentlyville

Bentleyville's epidemic of typhoid fever due to contaminated water in springs and wells is increasing instead of diminishing, four new cases being reported today. There are now a total of 32 cases of the disease in the town.

Two Red Cross nurses are now employed in the town constantly in caring for the sick because of the large number of new cases. One was ordered for duty at the start of the outbreak, but it was necessary to secure another during the last few days.

While there has been but one death in the town so far, several of those suffering from the disease are reported to be in a serious condition.

Every possible precaution is being taken to prevent a further spread. It is not believed the new cases have developed because of any laxity on the part of officials but that they were due to contaminated water used before the outbreak and the testing of water.

Burgess H. L. Hetherington, other officials and residents of the town, are working strenuously to have the changes made ordered by the sanitary engineer of the state department of health. But six days remain for this to be accomplished.

Water, which has been tested and condemned, is being placarded so that the general public will know not to use the contents of the various wells and springs found to be poluted with typhoid germs.

Girl Assaulted

Connellsville, Pa., Oct. 5.—Attacked by a masked man while at work early today in a lonely signal tower on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Meadow Run, six miles from Brownsville, Miss Margaret Burns, aged 20, of Connellsville, struggled with her assailant for more than 20 minutes before she was rendered unconscious by a blow on the head from an automatic pistol wielded by the man.

Miss Burns, according to her story was at work in the upper floor of the tower when she heard the sound of breaking glass, and turning to one of the windows, was confronted by a well-dressed man whose face was covered by a white handkerchief and who menaced her with an automatic pistol. Warning her not to make any outcry, the man advanced toward the girl, and she grappled with him, scratching at his face and screaming for help. The girl's clothing was badly torn.

After she had been struck on the head, Miss Burns lay unconscious for several hours, she declared, and on reviving found herself alone in the tower. She at once notified the police here, giving a description of the man.

The intruder, to enter the tower, climbed a telegraph pole nearby and swung himself across space to a scaffold under one of the windows, breaking the glass as he did so. It is believed the man left the tower immediately after striking the girl.

Case Was Settled

The case of Edward Applegate, charged with the larceny of an automobile by A. Kreiger, was settled satisfactorily to both parties yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace White. Mr. Kreiger retains possession of the car, a Nash touring car until Mr. Applegate makes the final payments. Mr. Applegate also has agreed to continue in the employ of Mr. Kreiger. The costs were divided among the two parties concerned.

Ponzi Short

Boston, Oct. 5.—Charles Ponzi can pay less than one dollar in three on the claims of creditors of his shattered scheme of high finance. Instead of 50 per cent profits, which he promised those who expected him to lead them to quick riches will lose more than that on their actual investments.

The extent to which the millions intrusted to Ponzi had been reduced became known definitely today for the first time when C. N. Rittenhouse, auditor for the Federal receivers of Ponzi made his report. To meet liabilities set at $7,500,000, the auditor said Ponzi had assets of only $2,195,685. This included as principal items a certificate of deposit for $1,058,221, cash in banks amounting to $150,076, Ponzi's home in Lexington, estimated at $110,000 and 1,590 shares of the Hanover Trust company, estimated at $200,000.

Reopen Conference

(By United Press)

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 6—William B. Wilson, secretary of labor, said today he would announce from Washington shortly his decision on the request of a committee of Pennsylvania anthracite miners to reopen the conference between miners and operators for the purpose of effecting a new wage scale.

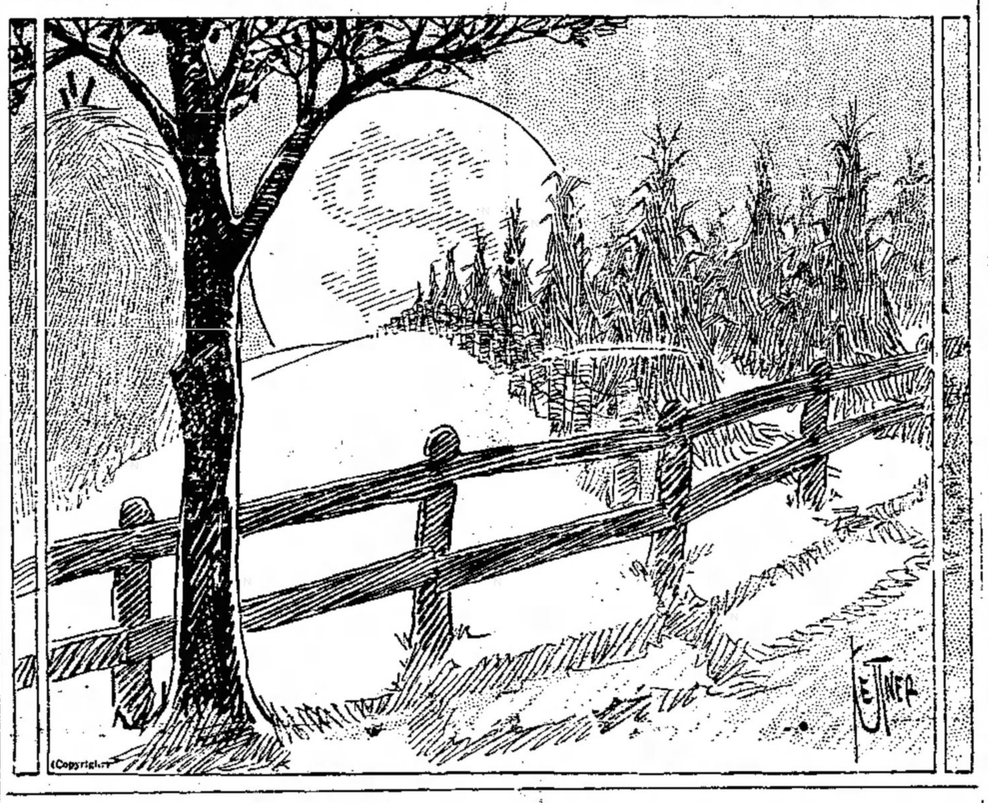
Wilson, who is here for a speech, was interviewed by the policy committee yesterday. The committee departed last night intimating that a strike may follow refusal to reopen the wage question.

"I am giving the matter serious consideration" Wilson said. "I will announce my decision from Washington."

Wilson refused to discuss the situation further.

The miners in district nine of the Pennsylvania anthracite field charge they are being discriminated against.

Harvest Moon



Enrollment in Night School Was Large

Night school opened last evening in the local High school with the largest enrollment in the history of the school, there being 137 pupils present and with indications that before the end of the term this number will be more than doubled. A number who expect to attend are working night turn this week and will report for the first class on next Tuesday evening. Classes will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week for the next forty weeks, and competent teachers have been secured to take charge of those who attend.

The majority of those enrolling last evening were anxious to take a business course and are taking instruction in typewriting, shorthand and bookkeeping. Others are taking sewing, cooking and mechanical drawing and there is one class in basketry.

Americanism is being taught the majority of the students, the classes being instructed by Miss Preston who took a special course along this line in Columbia University, and Miss Bowman who studied this work at the University of Pittsburgh. Additional instructors will be secured as the classes warrant and those desiring to attend are requested to get in communication immediately with the High school.

Foot Ball Practice

The local High school foot ball team held their first scrimmage last night since their game with Morgantown Saturday. As is usually the case with High school teams, after a victory, their head gears were entirely too small to fit them and it took a trouncing at the hands of the second team to bring them back to earth. The second team scored two touchdowns and kicked both goals, giving them 14 points while the first team could do no better than a safety and one touchdown for a total of nine points.

The most conspicuous feature of the scrimmage was the poor playing of the whole team. Fumbles, bonehead plays and poor tackling was the order of the evening. The poor playing of the team was only surpassed by their indifference and lack of "pep." Unless there is a complete change of spirit and form before Saturday they will be disgracefully trounced by the strong Tech Freshmen team.

The Tech team is composed of various stars from last year's city teams as well as four men from various Youngstown High teams. Their line averages 175 pounds, while they boast of a 185 pound full back.

Overcome With Joy

(By United Press)

London, Oct. 6—Terence MacSwiney was overcome with joy here today when his brother Peter, arrived from New York. The lord mayor, beginning his fifty-fifth day of hunger-striking in Brixton jail, whispering his greetings to his older brother then dropped back upon his cot.

Peter, a shoe cutter in New York City arrived here without warning, and went to the jail unannounced. The lord mayor opened his eyes to look on the quivering face of a grey-haired man. The visitor took MacSwiney's hand and suddenly the lord mayor smiled in recognition. It was his first sight of his older brother in twenty years.

The lord mayor whispered his greetings and attempted to talk. His strength failed however, and he settled back in his cot, still clinging to his "big brother's" hand.

Started For Home

Aviator David Ruse with his mechanic, Joseph Konopinski, left Lincoln, Neb., this morning for this city according to a telegram received here and if weather conditions are favorable the machine should arrive in town tomorrow evening. The plane, a Lincoln Tourabout, will be the largest ever brought to the valley and will in addition to the aviator, carry two passengers. The plane is owned by local people and will, if it arrives Thursday, start carrying passengers on sightseeing tours the following day. Mr. Ruse, a former army aviator, will give exhibitions of fancy flying before making flights with passengers. Details of the trio to this city will be announced in this paper, along with the location of the local flying field.

New York, Oct. 6.—Somebody will have to shoot a little hop into the crowd at Ebbets Field to day to make the Indians and Dodgers realize they are playing before a bunch of fans instead of an undertakers' convention.

Maybe it was the arctic weather; maybe it was the trimming of the home boys got—anyway, the 23,000 cash customers who attended the opening game gave a perfect imitation of rheumatic paralytics who were born deaf and dumb.

The noise making devices which in past series have been as much a part of the game as the players themselves were absent. There were no cowbells, no motor horns, no whistles. But most of all, there there was no pep.

During the greater part of the game the fans sat huddled beneath their overcoats, shimmying anon as a particularly coolish breeze struck them, and coming up for air only when a "hot dog" vendor passed within hailing distance. It really seemed that a "hot dog" was more to be desired than a two-bagger. And there probably wasn't a fan in the stands who wouldn't have traded a perfectly good home run for some pretzels or whatchalu'ber.

A lone Cleveland rooter, however, stuck out like a sore thumb from the rest. This was Fred C. Roezge, president of a Cleveland tire company. He sat in the upper stand back of the plate. Armed with the only megaphone on the field and abiding faith in the Indians' ability to lick the pickers of the big city, he was really the life of the party. His voice was so powerful he used the center field fence as a sounding board. Fans were offering odds of ten to one he wouldn't last five in-

Independent Leads With Results of Ball Games

Monessen base ball fans for the first time in the history of a World Series games received a detailed account of each game in their evening paper the day of the game, yesterday. This was made possible by the fact that the Daily Independent received the result of each inning's play just as it happened and in addition to bulletins, the score and full account appeared in the evening paper which was out on the streets before four o'clock. The game started at 2:02 o'clock, but with Brooklyn observing daylight saving, the time of the game was one o'clock here and at 1:10 the first inning was received over the United Press wire and continued until 3:45 when the report of the final inning was received.

All games played at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, will start at one o'clock, local time and a full account of the contests will appear in the Independent while the public is invited to call by phone, 53, at any time and the progress of the contest will be gladly given.

The Independent is the only paper in the upper Monongahela valley receiving direct United Press wire reports of the game in detail and one of the very few papers in Western Pennsylvania giving a detailed account of the game, the same day the game is played.

Hundreds of calls were received yesterday and this office is keeping surrounding towns in touch with the big series. Charleroi, Donora and Monongahela fans calling here to receive the news first hand. On Saturday, in addition to the base ball score by innings, the results of the leading collegiate football games will be received by quarters.

Butler Will Be Dissolved From Westmoreland Dist.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Long strides in population in the last 10 years will give Pennsylvania 41 representatives in Congress, an increase of five over the present membership. The 1920 census total, to be announced in a few days, will show the state population to be approximately 8,680,000 compared with 7,665,111 in 1910, an increase of between 13 and 14 per cent during the decade.

With three of the smaller counties missing from the tabulation, the Pennsylvania total under the new census stands now at 8,427,690. The three missing counties, Adams, Cambria and Cumberland, had a combined population in 1910 of 254,922 and it is expected their totals will show relatively slight changes. Adams and Cumberland counties are likely to show a loss and Cambria county a gain, if they run true to form with other counties in the state. Almost without exception agricultural counties throughout the country have fallen off in population while industrial counties have gained.

On the present basis of apportionment, which under the law allows one Congressman for each 211,000 of population "or major portion thereof," averages one to each 210,504 persons under the 1910 census, the Pennsylvania Legislature in January will face the task of redistricting the state in order to provide berths for the five new members to which the state will be entitled and the four representatives at large now without districts.

Pittsburgh will be entitled to two additional district representatives and Philadelphia to three, unless the present basis of apportionment is changed. Allegheny county will have six instead of four and Philadelphia nine instead of six.

Any logical arrangement of counties under the prospective redistricting program would give Western

REPUBLICAN IN POLITICS

THE NUTTING SEASON

The brisk Autumn breezes of yesterday whisked away the last few remaining leaves from the black walnut trees and tumbled into the grass below not a few of the blacken green globes that later will blacken in the sun on some smokehouse roof, to be finally hammered off and tossed away, while the country boy carries his treasure of ripened nuts to the garret floor, there to undergo another process of drying and curing to be at their best for the feastings of the long winter evening to come.

Nut gathering is a joy that only the farm boy knows. Harking back to those far distant days, when stores of nuts were laid in by his forest dwelling ancestor against the famine months, when the cruel Frost King held the world in his grasp, the country boy watches for the first frost to crack the chestnut burrs and he reckons time by the falling leaves of the walnut and the yellowing foliage of the hickory and the shellbark. It is a sensation the city lad knows little of--this garnering of the fruit of the woods, against the shut in nights of winter. The crisp air of the fragrant forest, the rustle of the falling, scattering leaves, the patter of the falling nuts as the heavy stone, in the hands of sturdy youngsters makes the great tree shudder; the gathering of the spoils, and the bearing of them to the homes.

What, though mothers scold over walnut-stained paws, that will not come clean for Sunday church-going; what, though there are chestnut prickles where they should not be? The nuts are safe in the garret, and, better still, there are memories stored safe away where they will not be lost, but, like the walnuts, grow sweeter and richer with the passing of the days.

SUGAR FROM CORN

The authoritative announcement of the Associated Press than a New York investigator has perfected a process for the production of white sugar of superior quality from field corn will be received with intense interest, not only by the farmers of the country, but by a long suffering public.

If it be true that corn can be made to yield table sugar at four and one-half cents a pound . our friends the sugar speculators and those Cuban gentlemen who have been realizing immense fortunes by holding up the consumers for unfair profits, may see themselves suddenly facing bankruptcy.

The unlimited quantity of corn in the United States assures the country of all the corn sugar it may desire, and with a home product on the market underselling the imported stuff, the American housewife is very likely to show small interest in the financial welfare of the robbers who have been looting their purses for the past two years.

Unquestionably, the researches resulting in the discovery of this new product were brought about by a desire to meet the ever-increasing prices of cane and beet sugar since the war. "Necessity is the mother of invention," and high prices are a mighty spur to inventive energy. If the sugar producers are hard hit it will be their own fault. And by the same token the coal operators and the miners ought to take a lesson from what is transpiring in the sugar market. They are enjoying the royal sport of boosting prices to the limit. The sugar profiteers have nothing on the miners and sellers of coal. "Give us ours and the public be damned" appears to be the motto of everybody concerned in the production of coal, but one of these days an inventor is going to come along with a substitute fuel and then somebody is going to wonder what is happening to the coal business. Make no mistake about it, exhorbitant and continued high prices of any necessity of life always has and always will produce a substitute There is no commodity so important that its producers can for any protracted period continue to charge unjustly high prices.

Just how high must the price of whiskey go until some men will quit drinking because it costs too much?

Somehow the "short and ugly word" lacks the punch it had in other days when it was used in politics.

The candidate for office will now probably need to lay in a stock of fudge with his campaign cigars.

When a man's scheme to enrich others does not pan out right he gets well panned by his victims

New Census Will Increase Congressmen

Pennsylvania at least two more district Congressmen in addition to the new members from Allegheny county.

Westmoreland county is entitled to be a district by itself .Washington and Greene counties could support a congressman. Fayette and Somerset counties another and Beaver and Lawrence counties a third, giving three representatives of two as at present to this group of counties now comprising the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth districts

Butler, Mercer and Venango counties would furnish population for a new district in a new grouping. Another possible combination is Venango, Forest, Elk, McKean and Cameron counties, cutting Mercer from the present Twenty-eighth district and adding McLean and Cameron to the present Twenty first district.

Cambria and Blair or Cambria and Bedford counties could support a congressman with the elimination of one county in this triangular group now comprising the Nineteenth district.

Any of these groups would be more convenient geographically than the present districts

There is a strong possibility that Congress will raise the basis of apportionment to keep the House membership about where it is rather than increasing it If the apportionment is after filling up the additional seats created by the 1920 census, would equal or exceed 500 as against 435 now The lower branch of Congress already is considered unwieldy and the prospect of a further increase of 65 members is regarded as bewildering

Objections to a reduction in the House membership or an increase in the apportionment basis come chiefly from states which have lost population

The salary list for a Congress of 600 members---500 odd in the House and 96 in the Senate --would be $4,500,000 a year In addition, each member receives $3,200 annually for secretarial and clerk hire and 20 cents a mile for traveling to and from his district at the beginning and end of each session of Congress There is also a stationery allowance of $125 per year, perquisites in the form of free Government documents for distribution, bound copies of the "Congressional Record," and official publications, garden seeds and sundry other items that all add to the expense of maintaining a member in Washington.

When the 1910 census total was made public a bitter fight was made to keep the membership where it was at that time This fight failed and subsequently 42 additional members took their seats

The growth in size of the House of Representatives is recorded as follows

Constitutional apportionment, 65, 11790 census, 106; 1810 census, 186; 1830 census, 242, 1850 census, 237; 1860 census, 243; 1870 census, 293; 1880 census, 332; 1890 census, 357; 1900 census, 291, 1910 census, 435.

With 435 members it now takes the tally clerk 40 minutes to call the roll It is with the greatest difficulty that the votes are recorded, and frequently recapitulations are demanded because the members all engage in conversation while the names are being called It is seldom possible for the speaker or presiding officer to maintain order in the chamber to the extent that debators may be heard all over the chamber

Many Deeds Recorded

When the gong sounded quitting time in the office of Recorder of Deeds Harry S. Miller, Monday night, it was found that there had been a large number of legal papers left to be recorded and a big sum of money handed over as payment on the recording end. Mr. Miller and his office force were tired and weary after a big day's work. Real estate men had been in the office at the court house having deeds and mortgages placed on record and scores of the same kind of papers were sent through the mail from all parts of the county.

The rush was caused, as Mr. Miller states, by people being desirous to gain possession of property before winter sets in with snow and storms. The people wanted to "get in on the first floor" by the first of the month and many of them were successful.

During this time, he received for record 127 deeds, 38 mortgages and several satisfactions and assignments of mortgages. The deeds placed on record represent the change of title of property valued between $250,000 and $300,000. The amount of money received for the recording of the legal paper was $345.75. Of this large amount for one day the sum of $80 will be paid as tax to the state treasurer and the balance will be paid to the county treasurer.

Eclipse of Moon

A partial eclipse of the moon will occur on November 10, when about one-quarter of the sun's face will be hidden by the moon coming between the earth and the sun, declared Director Hebert D. Curtis of the Allegheny Observatory yesterday. The eclipse will be at 8:57 in the morning and will end at 11:03. The greatest obscuration will be at 9:58 o'clock. The phenomenon will be visible in Monessen, if the skies are clear. A total eclipse of the sun visible only in Australia, will occur September 20, 1922. The advisability of sending a representative of Allegheny observatory to Australia at that time is now being discussed.

Mail Carriers Fined

Pleading guilty to a charge of detaining and delaying delivery of United States mail, Joseph G. Wise, a mail carrier, working out of the Altoona, Pa., postoffice, yesterday was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 in United States District court by Judges Charles P. Orr and W. H. S. Thomson.

According to postoffice inspectors, Wise on several occasions took part of the mail from his sack when the load was too heavy and placed the matter in the rear of a storeroom in Altoona. When this place was searched, 1,053 pieces of mail were found undelivered.

David S. Truxall, of Ligonier, Pa., was sentenced to pay a fine of $200, and John H. Truxall of the same place, was fined in Federal court yesterday when both pleaded guilty to a charge of deserting mail.

The Truxalls were engaged to haul mail from Ligonier to Latrobe where it was placed aboard trains. A mail pouch containing between $5,000 and $10,000, consigned to a Pittsburgh bank, was placed on the Latrobe Pennsylvania railroad station platform by the two defendants, it is said, and deserted. This pouch and contents were stolen. The pouch was some time later found in the woods a distance from Latrobe, by berry pickers, but the money could not be recovered.

Nobody thinks anything now of going away on a trip

THE railroads were partly responsible. But it wasn't until the automobile reached its present state of development that the old barriers against travel were finally broken down.

II

More people own automobiles today than ever thought of owning a horse and buggy in the old days.

That's because the cost of motoring has been brought within reach of the average citizen's pocketbook.

We look upon it as part of our job to keep it there. If it weren't for the trade of the man with the medium priced car there wouldn't be much in this tire business for us.

III

The less a man has to spend on motoring, the more important it is that his tires should be of first quality.

Any tire is not good enough for the small car owner. He wants a tire that will give him just as much for his money in the small size as the big car man gets for his money in the large size.

IV

In thinking over what kind of tires we would represent in this community we tried to put ourselves in the place of the car owner. And we believe we hit it exactly when we selected U. S. Tires.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Russia's Forests Burned By Peasants

By HENRY WOOD

Paris, September 25--Russia's great forests constituting one of her most valuable natural resources and one of the world's last great supplies of timber, are being ruthlessly burned to the ground by the Russian peasants in an effort to defeat Bolshevism.

With the necessity of laying in huge stocks of wood and fuel in order to stave off the rigors of the coming winter the Soviets some time ago gave orders for the cutting down and transportation of huge sections of the Russian forests. The peasants were recruited by force to do the work. This proved the last straw.

To prevent the execution of this order, the peasants have fired forests and these forest fires are now raging throughout Russia in the most devastating degree. Not only are whole forests being burned to the ground but scores of villages and thousands of single houses that are in the path of the sweeping forest fires are disappearing in flames.

Detailed news of this action of the peasants has just been received in Paris by M Kerenski from one of his supporters still remaining in Russia

The letter which the latter has just sent to Paris reads in part as follows:

You probably know that Russia is burning. Enormous tracts of timbered land have become the prey of flames and both large and small villages as well as entire quarters of larger cities are likewise disappearing ravaged by the flames. "The Red Cock" stalks everywhere, free and gay, from one of the country to the other All efforts to fight this scourge remain useless, because the Russian peasant wants to burn and burns deliberately.

"In its despair and in its powerless hate, the entire Russian peasantry has decided to fall back on this antique means of vengeance--"The Red Cock" --against the Bolshevists

"The hate of the peasants against the present regime has never before attained the intensity that it now has. And it is precisely at the present moment that the Soviets have proposed to prepare the stocks of wood and fuel necessary for heating during the coming winter. They have undertaken a systematic cutting down of the forests in the central and northern departments.

"The peasants burn first the forests, then the villages, and finally abandon completely the districts, emigrating to Siberia.

"To add to this disaster all of the territory between Tambor to the granaries of the Volga (departments of Samard and Saratov) have suffered immensely from drouth.

"Even now the famine is growing daily in the villages and cities and there is nothing with which the people can clothe themselves.

"We understand perfectly the hate that surrounds the present regime. Starving, naked, menaced by death on all sides, epidemics terror, war, terrorized by the commissaries, we no longer have the force to resist or to defend our honor and our dignity. We exist but we no longer live a human life.

"Moscow is a dead city where there move mere phantoms which seem to have the semblance of life! In the midst of the shadows are to be seen the commissaries of the people, healthy, well nourished and well clothed."

Russians Continue Demonstrations

London, Oct. 5.---More anti-soviet demonstrations have broken out in Russia, according to dispatches to the Post today. Advices from Riga said there were riots in Tamboff, Saternoff, and Kazan necessitating the sending of troops to those cities.

In sending soldiers to quell the rioters the soviet government was embarrassed by the shortage of man power, due to the continued pounding of the enemy on the Polish and Ukrainian fronts.

Leon Trotsky, head of the Russian war department, is trying to lash his men on, according to quotations from the soviet paper Isvestia.

An article signed by Trotsky said: "The army is weakened by a long campaign. The people are passive. Workmen and peasants must realize that if the Red Army sustains another serious defeat, the position of the soviets will be catastrophic."

All reports here today indicated the Poles had made further advances against the soviet troops, reported still in disorganized flight along the western front. The usual Moscow wireless communique was missing but Polish statements told of their run-in with the capture of thousands of prisoners and much valuable property.

General Pilsudski, head of the Polish government, was reported in the field actively governing the advance of the army while watching the peace negotiations at Riga.

A wireless dispatch from Warsaw, relayed through Berlin, said the view was held in some quarters that the Poles would cease their advance shortly and cling to the fortified line established in the world war by the Germans. There was no official statement from the Polish government but the report previously was current that a line had been chosen for halting the advance.

The Lithuanian legation here announced today that dispatches from the Lithuanian capital, Vilna, said the Poles had offered to withdraw to the boundary line established at the Versailles conference but had demanded use of the Suwalki-Olita railway.

The legation said Polish troops had attacked the Lithuanians at several points on Oct. 2nd, but had been repulsed.

Another Fistic Arena

(By United Press)

New Orleans, La., Oct. 6--This city is to have another fistic arena. The Winter Garden having been leased for a term of years by Al Pilsbury and Hal Harvey, well known in local sporting circles, will be entirely remodeled to a modern fighting arena The backers of the new enterprise plan to have the arena in readiness for a boxing carnival beginning the latter part of October. Thereafter, it is planned to hold weekly matches throughout the winter months.

Oklahoma Claims Oldest Woman Voter

(By United Press)

Lawton, Okla., Oct. 6--Woman suffrage was received with no more delight by any woman in the state than by Mrs. Elizabeth Davison, Lake township, Comanche county who is probably the oldest voter in the state of Oklahoma and probably in the United States. Mrs. Davison who is 110 years old, registered for the first time at the registration preceding the recent primary.

"Grandma" Davison, as she is better known is taking an active interest in politics, especially in the candidacy of Elmer Thomas, candidate for congress from the sixth district, with whom she has been close friends for many years. "Grandma" Davison lives in the Wichita Mountains, a short distance above Medicine Park.

She was born in Scotland in 1810. She came with her parents to the United States and located in Tennessee. Later she moved to Texas and at the opening in 1901, came to Oklahoma to take up a homestead Mrs Davison is remarkably active for her age. She registered as a Democrat at the recent registration.

Medical Society Session Opened Today

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Seventieth session of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania opened here today with the largest attendance in the history of the organization, over 15,000 Keystone state physicians being registered. Pittsburgh is host this week also to the members of the Pennsylvania section of the American College of Surgeons whose schedule begins on Friday, when the last conference of the Medical Society takes place.

Features of that general interest include this evening's public conference on Workmen's Compensation and Compulsory Health Insurance, the chief speakers being Dr. Alfred C. Wood of Philadelphia and Dr. Frederick H. Green of Chicago, and Friday afternoon's big general meeting under the auspices of the Surgeons association and various local charitable bodies. At the latter conference there will be an open discussion of "Conservation of Life From A Surgical Standpoint," together with the presentation to laymen of information dealing with the prevention of cancer mortality.

In his inaugural address as the newly elected president of the Medical Society, Dr. Henry D. Jump of Philadelphia condemned state central of the medical profession as impracticable and undesirable. Dr. Jump's attitude was reflected by other speakers at this evening's public conference. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Thomas E. Finegan, spoke to the Society upon "The Physician and The Public Schools."

Tribute Paid to Judge

At 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning the members of the Westmoreland County Bar Association assembled at the law library in the court house where tribute was paid to the memory of the late Judge John B. Steel. The meeting was presided over by Attorney John N. Boucher, president of the association.

Attorney Paul H. Gaither spoke of the deceased as a man of strong personality who was very practical in his work as a lawyer and judge. He stated that while he never cared to delve into the intricacies of the law, he did his work exceptionally well and was prompt in his duties. The speaker gave a short history of the conditions which existed before the establishment of the separate orphans' court with Judge Steel as the pioneer judge who was rugged and established a precedent which others have followed.

Attorney James Moorhead spoke of the Steel family and strong personality of the late Judge Steel. The bar took on a new dispensation of affairs when the orphans' court was established. Attorney Curtis H. Gregg was a classmate in the law studied with Judge Steel and he also spoke concerning the wonderful industry of the mans of his heroic power in points and his splendid companionship and his devotion to his family. Attorney S. W. Reser spoke of the judge as one who knew him in his early life.

The bar took action to attend the funeral in the afternoon in a body

Women Can Be Successful Trappers

(By United Press)

Victoria, B C, Oct 6—Mrs. William Chamberlain, wife of a rancher at Invermere on the Columbia river, proved last season that women can be successful trappers She cleared $1,900 on furs with sixty traps As pioneer in a new femmine industry, she set an example that will be followed by many women throughout British Columbia this fall She is prenaring to trap on a larger scale. Her trap lines will be set with 209 traps when the season opens in November

When last season ended her season's catch was comprisd of 700 muskrats and many weasel, mink, skunks and red foxes

THE RIGHT OVERCOAT

You want the right overcoat; and it is important to be careful where you buy, because there are some that not the right ones.

All-wool fabrics, high grade tailoring, smart style are the things to look for; the quality of the goods determines the service you get; and that is your measure of economy.

"1900 Cataract" Washer

Saves Time and Money and Really Washes Clothes

The "1900" Cataract Washer is so simple in design and construction that no knowledge of machinery or electricity is necessary to produce work of the finest quality.

Considering laundress costs you actually save enough in one year to more than pay for the machine.

Our liberal offer of monthly payments will make you the owner of this wonderful Electric Washing Machine and Wringer.

We also offer free trial and demonstrations.
